

Department of Mathematics

The Department of Mathematics proudly hosted a significant event on 3rd November 2023 as part of Vigilance Awareness Week 2023. The event, themed "Say No to Corruption, Commit to the Nation," aimed to raise awareness about the detrimental effects of corruption on our society and encourage a commitment to honest and ethical practices.

The event commenced with a formal inauguration by Saraswati Vandana. The esteemed Chief Guest, Prof. Bechan Sharma, Dean, Faculty of Science, delivered an inspiring lecture. Sir highlighted the significance of vigilance and the role each individual could play in combating corruption. This set the tone for the event, emphasizing the importance of ethical conduct.

Prof. R. P. Shukla, Head of the Department of Mathematics, delivered a keynote speech on various aspects of corruption and its impact on society. Prof. P. K. Singh shared his views on the theme of the event. A pivotal moment of the event was the pledge-taking ceremony. Faculty members, students, and staff came forward to take an oath, in the presence of the Dean, Faculty of Science, to uphold the values of integrity and honesty, promising to resist corruption in all forms.

The active involvement of undergraduate, postgraduate students and research scholars made the event "Say No to Corruption, Commit to the Nation" a dynamic and insightful experience.

The event ended with a vote of thanks and chanting of the National Anthem. It is worth mentioning that the whole event was anchored by Dr. Anup Kumar Singh and Dr. Biswajit Mallick.
